"Energy eats tactics for breakfast."

Elle was down to her last $5, with no food for her 2-year-old son, when she gave it away to a stranger at a gas station. She didn't change a single tactic after that. She changed the energy going out. She went from $500,000 in debt to $1 million, acquired 27 businesses, and now shows rooms of entrepreneurs why the same strategy produces wildly different results for different people.

Energy Eats Tactics For Breakfast: How I Went From $500,000 In Debt To $1 Million

The last $5 story, told in full, and what it reveals: results follow the version of you running the strategy, not the strategy itself.

Your audience leaves knowing exactly which version of themselves to bring to Monday.

Interactive Workshop, 60 Minutes

Catch Your Invisible Pattern

Invisible patterns drive thousands of small decisions every day, and those decisions build your future. In this session, the room catches one live.

Every person gets a $100 bill to decide what to do with, and the room physically moves to feel a pattern break. Then five real clients and their real numbers show what happens next.

What Happens In The Room

- A state shift, live. People feel the change in the room, not just take notes about it.
- Participation, not a lecture. Exercises the whole room does together.
- Proof with numbers. Real clients, real figures.
- Something to use Monday. Every person leaves with one pattern spotted and a first move.
